Norfolk Song Competition: prize night

The entries are in for the Norfolk Song Contest, and the judges have considered their verdicts – now for the announcement of the prize winners!

Chief Minister André Nobbs today invited everyone in the community to be present at the announcement of the winning songs at the Norfolk Song Awards Night, from 7:00 pm Saturday 6th June, to be held at Tampali Kalcha Said (Donald & Maree Reynolds' property) Rocky Point Road, Bumboras.

There will be informal performances of prize winning songs and the chance to sing along with this exciting new music. Entry will be by donation and coffee and tea will be supplied. Please bring some nibbles and your own cold drinks.

The Norfolk Song Contest is the last formal event in the Year of the Norfolk Language, which concludes on Bounty Day. But many of the initiatives introduced during the year will continue, including the Norfolk language entry and prize categories at the Royal Agricultural and Horticultural Show, the Norfolk Song Competition and the ongoing research and language usage project in conjunction with the University of Adelaide.
